CHAPTER 7

Adv. Case No. 20-80031

MOTION FOR LEAVE TO APPEAL

MOTION FOR LEAVE TO APPEAL 1

BYRNES ♦ KELLER ♦ CROMWELL LLP
38TH FLOOR
1000 SECOND AVENUE
SEATTLE, WASHINGTON 98104
(206) 622-2000

1 Defendants Perkins Coie LLP and Lowell Ness (collectively, “Perkins”) move
2
3 for leave to appeal the Bankruptcy Court’s Order Granting Motion to Strike Jury
4 Demand (ECF. 49), entered April 22, 2021 (hereinafter the “Order”).

5 I. RELIEF REQUESTED

6 Perkins asserts that the Order Granting Motion to Strike Jury Demand is 7
8 appealable as of right under 28 U.S.C § 158(a)(1), and does not waive any right to 9
10 appeal the Order without leave of Court. In the alternative, and in the event the Order 11 is not deemed “final” and appealable as of right, Perkins hereby requests leave to 12 appeal the Order under 28 U.S.C § 158(a)(2) and Fed. R. Bankr. P. 8004.

13 II. QUESTION PRESENTED

14 Whether leave to appeal the Court’s Order Granting Motion to Strike Jury 15 Demand (ECF. 49), entered April 22, 2021, should be granted in the event the Order is 16 not deemed a “final” order.

17 III. BACKGROUND

18 A. Factual Summary

19 This Adversary Proceeding relates to the sale of digital cryptocurrency mining 20 “tokens.” Purchasers from around the world entered into “WTT Token Purchase 21 Agreements” with a Singapore company, Giga Watt Pte. Ltd (“GW Singapore”). The 22 Trustee claims that Perkins acted as an escrow agent for GW Singapore and for the 23 token purchasers with regard to each purchase transaction. The Trustee further claims
24 that the Debtor, Giga Watt, Inc. (“Debtor”), was in partnership with GW Singapore 25
26

1 and thereby became liable to purchasers for breach of the WTT Token Purchase
2 Agreements when Perkins allegedly breached the terms of the escrow agreement.

3
4 B. Adversary Proceeding by the Trustee

5 On November 19, 2018, Giga Watt, Inc. filed a voluntary petition for relief
6 under Chapter 11 of Title 11 of the United States Code. The Chapter 11 bankruptcy
7 case was subsequently converted to a case under Chapter 7 on September 30, 2020.
8 On November 18, 2020, the Trustee, Mark Waldron, commenced this Adversary
9 Proceeding (Adv. Case No. 20-80031) (the “Adversary Proceeding”) in the United 10 States Bankruptcy Court for the Eastern District of Washington against Defendants
11 Perkins and others. In the Adversary Proceeding, the Trustee asserts state-law claims
12 against Perkins and seeks recovery of damages allegedly sustained by the Debtor prior 13 to the petition date purportedly caused by breach of the Token Purchase Agreements 14 and alleged escrow terms.
15

17 1. Motion to Withdraw the Reference

18 On December 31, 2020, Perkins filed a Motion to Withdraw the Reference, 19 requesting that the District Court withdraw the reference to the Bankruptcy Court, and 20 that the Adversary Proceeding be litigated and tried before the District Court, and 21 objecting to having the matter heard or determined by the Bankruptcy Court. See ECF
22 17, 18, 30. The Motion was transferred to the District Court on April 27, 2021 and is 23 now pending in the District Court captioned as: Waldron v. Perkins Coie, LLP, et al.,
24 United States District Court for the Eastern District of Washington No. 2:21-cv-25
26

1 00148-SAB. A hearing and oral argument on the Motion to Withdraw the Reference
2 has been scheduled for June 15, 2021 at 1:30 p.m. before Judge Bastian.

3
4 2. Orders of the Bankruptcy Court

5 On February 5, 2021, the Trustee filed a Motion to Strike Jury Demand, see
6 ECF 36, and a Motion to Determine That Proceeding Is Core, see ECF 38. On 7 February 26, 2021, Perkins filed a Motion to Compel Arbitration and Stay. See ECF
8 40. On April 22, 2021, after briefing and argument on the Motions, the Bankruptcy
9 Court entered the following orders: (1) Order Granting Motion to Strike Jury
10 Demand, see ECF 49; (2) Order Determining That Proceeding Is Non-Core, see ECF
11 50; and (3) Order Denying Motion to Compel Arbitration and Stay, see ECF 51.

12
13 Filed herewith, Perkins has filed a Notice of Appeal and Election to Have the 14 District Court Hear the Appeal, appealing the Bankruptcy Court's Orders (a) Granting 15 Motion to Strike Jury Demand, and (b) Denying Motion to Compel Arbitration and 16 Stay.

17
18 C. Related Class Action in District Court

19 Pending before the District Court is a related class action proceeding arising 20 from the same facts and circumstances as those complained of by the Trustee, and 21 seeking the same damages, captioned: Dam v. Perkins Coie, LLP, et al., United States
22 District Court for the Eastern District of Washington, No. 2:20-cv-00464-SAB. The 23 class action asserts state law claims against Perkins, and seeks recovery on behalf of 24 token purchasers of proceeds deposited into "escrow" with Perkins, and allegedly 25
26

1 improperly disbursed – i.e., the same damages sought by the Trustee. Discovery in 2 the related class action has not yet commenced. Following a scheduling conference,
3 the Court ordered that Perkins may file a motion to compel arbitration on or before
4 June 11, 2021.
5

6 IV. ARGUMENT

7 A. The Order Striking Jury Demand Is Appealable As of Right.

8 1. The Order Is “Final” Under 28 U.S.C. §158(a)(1).

10 A party may appeal as a matter of right from “final judgments, orders, and 11 decrees” of a Bankruptcy Court. 28 U.S.C. §158(a)(1). See also Fed. R. Bankr. P.
12 8003. The Ninth Circuit takes a pragmatic and flexible approach to “finality” in 13 bankruptcy cases. In re Liu, 611 B.R. 864, 870 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2020)(citing cases).
14 “The test for finality in bankruptcy typically asks two questions: (1) whether the 15 Bankruptcy Court’s order fully and finally determined the discrete issue or issues it 16 addressed; and (2) whether it ‘resolves and seriously affects substantive rights’.” Id.
17 Eden Place, LLC v. Perl (In re Perl), 811 F.3d 1120, 1126 (9th Cir. 2016)
18 (“substantive ruling with real effects” is final and reviewable). Using this finality
19 standard, the Ninth Circuit has found many different types of bankruptcy orders to be 20 “final” for purposes of appeal under 28 U.S.C. §158(a)(1). In re Liu, 611 B.R. at 871
21 (citing cases).
22

23
24 Relevant to the analysis here, in Ritzen Group, Inc. v. Jackson Masonry, LLC, 25 140 S. Ct. 582 (2020), the United States Supreme Court observed that a Bankruptcy
26

1 Court order which effectively resolves the forum in which the dispute will be litigated,
2 qualifies as a “final” order subject to appeal as of right:
3

4 Orders denying a plaintiff the opportunity to seek relief
5 in its preferred forum often qualify as final and 6 immediately appealable, though they leave the plaintiff
7 free to sue elsewhere.

8 Id. at 590. The Court reasoned that if Bankruptcy Court orders which had forum 9 altering effects were not immediately appealable, it would force the parties “to fully 10 litigate their claims in Bankruptcy Court and then, after the bankruptcy case is over,
11 appeal and seek to redo the litigation all over again in the original court.” Id. at 591.

12 Here, likewise, the Order Granting Motion to Strike Jury Demand purports to 13 resolve Perkins’ constitutional right to a jury trial, which in turn would significantly 14 alter and enhance the authority of the Bankruptcy Court to act, and alter the forum in 15 which the matter may be tried. Specifically, the claims asserted by the Trustee in the 16 adversary proceeding are non-core. See ECF 50 (Order Determining That Proceeding 17 Is Non-Core). “[T]he scope of the Bankruptcy Court’s adjudicatory powers is much 18 more circumscribed in the noncore context.” In re Cinematronics, Inc., 916 F.2d 19 1444, 1449 (9th Cir. 1990). In a non-core proceeding, the Bankruptcy Court lacks the 20 constitutional authority to preside over a jury trial. Id. at 1451. Thus, the right to jury
21 trial requires that the matter be tried before an Article III judge in the District Court.
22 See id. Here, Perkins moved to withdraw the reference and expressly stated that it did 23 not consent to have the matter heard or tried by the Bankruptcy Court. ECF 18 at 4.
24 By granting the Motion to Strike Jury Demand, therefore, the Court’s Order resolved a
26

1 discrete dispute of constitutional magnitude, thereby enhanced its own authority to 2 act, and altered the forum in which the matter could be heard. The issue of Perkins'
3 right to jury trial was already raised, and pending, in its Motion to Withdraw the 4 Reference. See ECF 18, 30. If the District Court were to now be bound by the 5 Bankruptcy Court's Order, the District Court's discretion to determine the issue, and 6 decide whether the reference should be withdrawn, would be substantially limited.
7 The Order, therefore, resolves a discrete issue relating to the forum in which the 8 matter may be tried. This is precisely the type of order that the court in Ritzen held 9 was a final order and immediately appealable, because it resolves a discrete issue,
10 materially impacts substantive rights of the parties and the authority of the Bankruptcy
11 Court to act, and alters the forum in which the matter may be tried. See 140 S.Ct. at 12 590. Moreover, absent immediate appeal, the parties would potentially be forced "to 13 fully litigate their claims in Bankruptcy Court and then, after the bankruptcy case is 14 over, appeal and seek to redo the litigation all over again in the original court" (i.e., in 15 the District Court before a jury). Ritzen, 140 S. Ct. at 591.

19 2. If the Order Is Not Final, Then It Should Be Deemed a Report
20 and Recommendation.

21 Motions to withdraw the reference are decided by the District Court. While the 22 Bankruptcy Court may provide the District Court with a report and recommendation
23 or similar non-binding opinions on the merits of a motion to withdraw the reference, 24 withdrawal of the reference is ultimately in the discretion of the District Court. If the 25 Order Granting Motion to Strike Jury Demand is not a final, appealable order of the 26

1 Bankruptcy Court, then it likewise should be considered non-binding on the District
2 Court. What the Order should not be treat as is both non-final (and therefore not 3 immediately appealable), and binding on the District Court. If the Order were to be 4 both non-final but nonetheless binding on the District Court, it would improperly alter
5 and limit the District Court’s discretion, and the factors relevant to exercising that 6 discretion, in deciding the Motion to Withdraw the Reference. In its Opposition to the 7 Motion to Strike Jury Demand, Perkins expressly objected to this “end-run” around 8 the District Court’s jurisdiction. See ECF 41 at 2 (ECF pg. 3 of 22).
9
10

11 B. In the Alternative, Leave to Appeal Should Be Granted.

12 28 U.S.C 158(a)(3) provides that, with leave of court, District Courts have 13 jurisdiction to hear appeals of interlocutory orders of bankruptcy judges. See also 14 Fed. R. Bankr. P. 8004(a) (setting forth procedure for interlocutory appeals under 15 Section 158(a)(3)). Neither Section 158 nor Rule 8004, however, articulates the 16 standard governing when leave should be granted. Courts therefore “look[ ] to the 17 standards set forth in 28 U.S.C. § 1292(b),” which governs interlocutory appeals in 18 non-bankruptcy federal actions. Roderick v. Levy (In re Roderick Timber Co.), 185
19 B.R. 601 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 1995). Under that standard, leave to appeal is appropriate 20 where (1) there is a controlling question of law, (2) as to which substantial ground for 21 difference of opinion exists, and (3) immediate appeal could materially advance the 22 termination of the litigation. Id.; 28 U.S.C. § 1292(b). See also, e.g., Harrington v.
23 Mayer (In re Mayer), 2020 WL 6746931 at *3 (S.D. Cal. Nov. 16, 2020) (discussing 24
25
26

1 standard for leave to appeal). Here, all three factors are met. Therefore, if the Order
2 is deemed not to be final, then leave to appeal should be granted.
3

4 First, courts have routinely held that the determination of a constitutional right 5 to jury trial presents “a controlling issue of law” for purposes of granting leave to 6 appeal. See, e.g., The Official Comm. Of Unsecured Creditors v. Qwest Cmmc ’ns
7 Corp., (In re A.P. Liquidating Co.), 350 B.R. 752, 755 (E.D. Mich. 2006) (holding 8 that “the Bankruptcy Court’s Order Striking Jury Demand raises a controlling 9 question of law” and granting leave to appeal it). See also, e.g., Ross v. Bernhard, 396
10 U.S. 531, 532 (1970) (interlocutory review under 28 U.S.C. §1292(b) of right to jury
11 trial); Wilshire Assocs. v. Ashland Partners & Co., 2009 WL 10671718 at * 2 (C.D.
12 Cal. June 18, 2009)(discussing authorities, holding that right to jury trial presents
13 controlling issue of law, and certifying interlocutory appeal). Accordingly, the first 14 factor is met here.
15
16

17 Next, while Perkins asserts that the Court’s application of the law is erroneous, 18 at minimum the Court’s basis for striking Perkins’ jury demand presents grounds for 19 substantial difference of opinion. As far as Perkins is aware, there is no authority (and 20 neither party cited any) holding that breach of an alleged escrow agreement is an 21 equitable claim that carries no right to jury trial. On the other hand, there is authority 22 holding that the duties of an escrow agent derive exclusively from the terms of the 23 contract, and there can be no breach of fiduciary duty by the agent without first
24 establishing the existence, terms, and breach of the contract. See ECF 41 at 11-12
25
26

1 (ECF pgs. 12-13 of 22) (citing authorities). Similarly, there is controlling authority
2 holding that where a claim – even an otherwise equitable one – depends on the 3 existence, terms, and breach of a contract, the right to jury trial attaches because the 4 existence, terms, and breach of the contract are both necessary and antecedent to the 5 equitable claim. See id. at 13-15 (ECF pgs. 14-16) (discussing Dairy Queen and 6 DePinto). In holding that the claim here, styled as breach of fiduciary duty, is purely 7 equitable, the Court refused to apply this authority and ignored that the antecedent
8 contract, and a breach of it, must first be established and are jury issues. ECF 49 at 5-
9 9. Indeed, in rejecting the Ninth Circuit’s decision in DePinto, the Bankruptcy Court
10 apparently relied on Justice Stewart’s dissenting opinion in Ross. Id. at 9 n. 7.

11
12 Likewise, although the Court itself acknowledged that the Trustee’s Complaint
13 requested money damages, it concluded that the damages sought (millions of dollars)
14 was “incidental” to some other, unarticulated, equitable relief, and therefore did not 15 require a jury trial. ECF 49 at 11. The Court also relied heavily on the fact that 16 bankruptcy is an equitable court, and that it was required to apply equitable principles.
17 In doing so, the Court placed its own role and equitable powers ahead of Perkins’
18 constitutional rights, even though there is no authority for weighing the role, or 19 considering the equitable powers, of a Bankruptcy Court in the determination of a 20 party’s right to trial by jury. The Bankruptcy Court similarly refused to apply
21 authorities holding that where the defendant is no longer in possession of the money
22 or property at issue, the claim is for money damages, which is legal not equitable 23
25
26

1 relief. See ECF 41 at 16 (ECF pg. 17 of 22); ECF 30 at 5-6 (ECF pgs. 6-7 of 12). The 2 Court’s Order itself observed that courts have “struggled” with analyzing the legal or 3 equitable nature of a claim, and opined that there are no such things as inherently 4 legal or equitable issues, but only factual “chameleons” that depend on the 5 circumstances. ECF 49 at 6, 7. Substantial grounds for difference of opinion exist as 6 to the manner and basis of the Court’s analysis and conclusions, and how it chose to 7 apply countervailing authorities.
8

10 Finally, an immediate appeal will materially advance the ultimate termination
11 of the litigation. As the Supreme Court observed in Ritzen, if the Order was held not 12 to be immediately appealable, it would force the parties “to fully litigate their claims 13 in Bankruptcy Court and then, after the bankruptcy case is over, appeal and seek to 14 redo the litigation all over again in the original court.” Id. at 591. See also In re A.P.
15 Liquidating, 350 B.R. at 756 (granting interlocutory appeal of right to jury trial 16 because it would avoid a bench trial that might later be overturned on appeal).
17 Immediate appeal of the Order Striking Jury Demand in this case is particularly 18 appropriate, since Perkins is entitled, under 9 U.S.C § 16, to immediate appeal as of 19 right of the Court’s Order Denying Motion to Compel Arbitration. As such, an appeal 20 will in any event be proceeding before the District Court, so it makes sense to join the 21 Jury Trial issue to it. In addition, the right to jury trial will anyway be heard by the 22 District Court as part of Perkins’ pending Motion to Withdraw the Reference. Thus, 23
25
26

1 immediate appeal will prevent piecemeal appeals and allow all issues to be efficiently
2 decided at the same time. Accordingly, leave to appeal should be granted.
